Fix a Leak Week

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency promoted the annual Fix a Leak Week in March, but remember you can find and fix leaks inside and outside your home to save water and money all year long. Minor leaks account for more than 1 trillion gallons of water wasted each year in U.S. homes. To the average homeowner, that means as many as 10,000 gallons wasted each year – enough to fill a backyard swimming pool.

Common types of leaks found in and around the home include old or faulty toilet flappers, dripping faucets, leaking showerheads as well as irrigation systems.

Fixing those leaks can save hundreds of gallons each month. Did you know:

- A leaky faucet that drips at the rate of one drip per second can waste more than 3,000 gallons per month. That's the amount of water needed to take more than 180 showers.
- A showerhead leaking at 10 drips per minute wastes more than 500 gallons per year. That's the amount of water it takes to wash 60 loads of dishes in your dishwasher.
- An irrigation system that has a leak 1/32nd of an inch in diameter (about the thickness of a dime) can waste about 6,300 gallons of water per month.

Many common household leaks are easily correctable and can save on your utility bill expenses and water in the community. Learn more about leaks at: <https://wateruseitwisely.com/detect-and-chase-down-leaks-with-watersense/>.
